Charlotte Biz Owner Certified as Associate Faculty

Charlotte, NC, August 31, 2005: Felicia Watlington, president/owner of Supplier Diversity Works! (SDW), has successfully completed the Integrated Faculty Certification process for the University of Phoenix, Charlotte Campus. The University of Phoenix is accredited by The Higher Learning Commission (HLC) and a member of the North Central Association (NCA). The NCA is one of six regional institutional accrediting associations in the United States, which are the associations that grant membership to all regionally accredited educational institutions, including Harvard, Princeton and Yale.

The faculty certification process involves a rigorous 5-week study on adult learning, facilitation techniques, University of Phoenix policies and procedures as well as a team project and presentation. The certification is open only to those with appropriate graduate and post-graduate studies as well as practical experience. Felicia Watlington is now a Certified Associate Faculty for Ground (on-campus) and Flexnet (a teaching modality which combines online and on-campus workshops).

"I am pleased that my business training, including an MBA from Duke University and over 20 years corporate and entrepreneurial experience, has been recognized for its worth in assisting adults in earning undergraduate and graduate-level degrees", stated Felicia Watlington. "And, we have gained additional knowledge and tools in facilitation – this will increase the value of our supplier diversity workshops and training for corporate and government clients."

Established in 1976, the University of Phoenix is the nation's largest, private, accredited university. Its mission is to educate working adults to develop the knowledge and skills that will enable them to achieve their professional goals, improve the productivity of their organization, and provide leadership and service to their communities.
